

been brought from the left and have prolonged the right, threatening the Rebel left and supplies. Instead of being able to take advantage of our withdrawal they have been obliged to scamper away to their left and hold us in check at so vital a point.— So each army is continually strengthening its line so as to lengthen it all that is possible. I think that we shall finally outflank them; if not, be prepared to hear of some grand movement from the army of the Cumberland.

FRANK WHEELER.

Two Years Ago.—On a Monday, two years ago, on the 15th of September, 1862, a band of men, some thousand strong, bade farewell to their friends, and all dear to them in the North, and went forth to service amid danger and death in the clouded Southland, once sunny and bright, but then and now, stained with the black smoke of battle and the red carnage of strife. On that day, with many a God speed, the 141st New York Volunteers left Elmira, and the loved HATHAWAY went with it as its commander. Two years of toil and battle have worked sad changes in those ranks, and scarcely one hundred men now answer to roll call within the walls of the "Gate City"—(Atlanta.) HATHAWAY sleeps in his honored grave, some home and died amid a sorrowing people whose reverence and affection shall ever hail the turf that entombs him. Many, very many, who so hopefully spoke the farewell words, looking into the eyes of loved ones in faith and expectation, sleep in a far-off grave, and the sweet southern wind whispers their last earthly farewell to waiting friends at home.

The 141st has had in the two years' absence, its full share of service, by "blood and field."— And its record is clear and untarnished,—a source of pride to its friends, and an honor to the service. It was for a time in Virginia, but was transferred to the Department of the Cumberland, and its history is identified with all the glory that has covered the arms of SHAWMAN. In the campaign, which has ended with the fall of Atlanta,—four months of constant marching and fighting, the 141st lost nearly three hundred men. At Wauhatchie, Chattanooga, Resaca, Dallas, Culp's Farm and Peach Tree Creek it met the foe and the thinned ranks told the story, as they followed a retreating foe.

At the battle of Peach Tree Creek, on the 20th of July, nine out of eleven officers fell,—the Colonel killed and the Lieutenant, Colonel, Major and Adjutant badly wounded.

It now rests in Atlanta,—a part of the gallant, victorious army who have won it.

We have written this, poor though it be, as a tribute to as good and brave a body of men as have ever gone from the North. Let the people remember LOGIE, and BARBER, and BARRETT, and WAGNER, and the glorious troop of private soldiers, who have toiled, and suffered, and died in their country's service, and keep them ever in dear recollection.

We give below the officers of the 141st, as when it left Elmira two years ago, and its officers at present. At the former time they were as follows:

- FIELD AND STAFF.
- Colonel—Samuel G. Hathaway, Jr.
 - Lieutenant Colonel—James C. Beecher.
 - Major—John W. Duffany.
 - Adjutant—Henry J. Pierson.

- Quartermaster—Siles Haight.
- Surgeon—Joseph W. Robinson.
- Assistant Surgeons—Orlando S. Greenman, Moses F. Babcock.
- Chaplain—Thomas K. Beecher.

- NON-COMMISSIONED STAFF.
- Sergeant Major—Louis A. Hazard.
 - Quartermaster Sergeant—Miles W. Hawley.
 - Commissary Sergeant—Maxwell Haight.
 - Hospital Steward—Harris Sawyer.

- COMPANY A.
- Captain—Charles W. Clauhart, promoted.
 - First Lieutenant—Wm. P. Ross, promoted.
 - Second Lieutenant—John Strowbridge, resigned.

- COMPANY B.
- Captain—Andrew J. Compton, still in command.
 - First Lieutenant—Stephen F. Griffith, promoted.
 - Second Lieutenant—Robert H. Hedges, resigned.

- COMPANY C.
- Captain—Elisha G. Baldwin, promoted.
 - First Lieutenant—James McMillan, still acting.
 - Second Lieutenant—Robert F. Stewart, resigned and commissioned as Captain in the 179th N. Y., severely wounded at Petersburg.

- COMPANY D.
- Captain—Charles R. Fuller, resigned.
 - First Lieutenant—William Merrill, promoted to Captain.
 - Second Lieutenant—Joseph G. Townsend, promoted to a Captain.

- COMPANY E.
- Captain—Wm. K. Logie, promoted, and killed as Colonel at the Battle of Peach Tree Creek.
 - First Lieutenant—John A. Shults, resigned.
 - Second Lieutenant—Emerson Belding, promoted.

- COMPANY F.
- Captain—Andrew J. Russell, still in service.
 - First Lieutenant—John Barton, resigned, and died from a wound received at Petersburg as Major of the 179th.
 - Second Lieutenant—Wm. L. Collins, resigned.

- COMPANY G.
- Captain—Daniel N. Aldrich, died in the service.
 - First Lieutenant—John W. Hammond, resigned.
 - Second Lieutenant—Charles H. Rowley, promoted to Captain.

- COMPANY H.
- Captain—William A. Bronson, resigned.
 - First Lieutenant—Stephen S. Rasco, resigned.
 - Second Lieutenant—James W. Smith, resigned.

- COMPANY I.
- Captain—Edward L. Patrick, promoted and resigned as Lieutenant Colonel.
 - First Lieutenant—Robert A. Hall, resigned.
 - Second Lieutenant—George Tubbs, promoted.

- COMPANY K.
- Captain—Wilbur F. Tuttle, resigned.
 - First Lieutenant—George L. Whiton, promoted.
 - Second Lieutenant—Joseph A. Frisbie, resigned.

The officers of the Regiment at present, are as follows:

- FIELD AND STAFF.
- Colonel—Andrew J. McNeill.
 - Lieutenant Colonel—Charles W. Clauhart.
 - Major—Elisha G. Baldwin.
 - Adjutant—Louis A. Hazard.
 - Quartermaster—Edwison Belding.
 - Surgeon—George M. Beecher.
 - Assistant Surgeons—Orlando S. Greenman, Moses T. Babcock.
 - Chaplain—G. Williamson Smith.

- NON-COMMISSIONED STAFF.
- Sergeant Major—James E. Carroll.
 - Quartermaster Sergeant—John P. Walker.
 - Commissary Sergeant—Charles H. Freeman.
 - Hospital Steward—Harris C. Sawyer.

- LINE—COMPANY A.
- Captain—William P. Ross.
 - First Lieutenant—W. J. Bryan.
 - Second Lieutenant—Donald McDonald, never mustered. (reported dead.)

- COMPANY B.
- Captain—A. J. Compton.
 - First Lieutenant—Phineas C. Mitchell.
 - Second Lieutenant—Charles E. Corryell. (not mustered.)

COMPANY C.
 Captain—Louis A. Hazard, commissioned, but not mustered.
 First Lieutenant—James McMillan.
 Second Lieutenant, (vacant.)

COMPANY D.
 Captain—Wm. Mettrill.
 First Lieutenant—Clemmon Osmaun.
 Second Lieutenant—Charles H. Freeman, (not mustered.)

COMPANY E.
 Captain—Joseph G. Townsend.
 First Lieutenant—Archie Baxter.
 Second Lieutenant—John Eccles.

COMPANY F.
 Captain—Andrew J. Russell.
 First Lieutenant—George Gray.
 Second Lieutenant, (vacant.)

COMPANY G.
 Captain—Charles H. Rowley.
 First Lieutenant—Maxwell G. Shappard.
 Second Lieutenant—M. J. Sherwood, (not mustered.)

COMPANY H.
 Captain—Stephen H. Griffith.
 First Lieutenant—Frederic C. Willor.
 Second Lieutenant—Ambrose Stewart, (not mustered.)

COMPANY I.
 Captain—Robert M. McDowell, detached on Gen. Slocum's Staff, of the 20th Corps.
 First Lieutenant—George Tubbs.
 Second Lieutenant—James E. Carroll, (not mustered.)

COMPANY K.
 Captain—George L. Whifton.
 First Lieutenant—Eugene Egbert.
 Second Lieutenant—Geo. W. Rogers, not mustered.

WATKINS EXPRESS.

WATKINS, N. Y.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1864.

The 141st Regiment—A Letter From Frank Wheeler.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16, 1864.

L. M. GANO—Sir: There being at last a prospect of having our communications so opened at the rear as to enable us to forward letters home. I will improve a few moments in writing to your paper an account of the 141st, and the surroundings. We have not been out of the City since its capture, Sept. 2d. At present we are, and for several weeks, have been, one of four Regiments under Col. Crane, doing guard and provost duty in the city. The 107th is one of the regiments. Our duty though pretty constant is more agreeable than any we have done before in this Department.

The buildings that had been abandoned by the citizens afforded us material for making comfortable shanties, in each of which we have made a fire place.

Our furniture consists of a couple of bunks, a table and a pair of stools, with these scanty comforts we feel as proud and contented as many a wealthy citizen in his "palatial residence." One can scarcely understand the deep feeling of gratitude and peace that take possession of a soldier when, after a long and difficult campaign, through all the sun and weather of a Southern climate, he finds himself in a good tent of boards that will keep him from the storm and sun, and the prospect of having, for a few weeks, a home. What if his dinner is nothing but beef, hard bread and coffee, he puts it on his table with just as much ceremony as if there were twice as much of it, and sits down to his repast with all the air and graciousness of a citizen at home, and with such a feeling of comfort as we used to feel at home when we were citizens, and when we become citizens again we mean to appreciate home comforts and privileges as we never did before, and to keep them from innovations and false estimates in our own and our neighbors' minds.

Our position as an army has been a critical one during the last short campaign between Atlanta and Chatanooga. The 20th A. C., alone holds Atlanta, while the whole army are repelling Hood from our Railroad, by which we are supplied.—Hood's first appearance was near Rosaca, after destroying several miles of the track he attacked a Station, Altoona, and was defeated and driven off, in a few days he has appeared again this time at and near Dalton, he is again beaten and driven off, losing each time heavily in proportion to his success. Some of this time our Corps has been on short rations, for several days we had nothing but hard bread and plenty of coffee, and now we are ordered to live on half rations, but that is much better than the "Johnnies" are doing, and within a few days, we don't mind it much, if we did we would not yield Atlanta. The question now seems to be whether we can retain Atlanta, or what there is little reason to doubt, for the case of Hood seems to me like that of the "Old Farmer and the Saucy Boy" reversed, he was at first able to deal heavy blows and to pelt us severely, but he has since become weaker and weaker after using dirt and grass to pelt us he will likely give up the task, if we will let him. His demonstrations on the Railroad are evidences of his weakness. If he is not able to stop our supplies after getting possession of our communications, twice in a mountainous country, but is defeated with loss, what can he do?

I as much expect the final ruin of Hood's army as the defeat of Gen. McClellan in the Presidential campaign, and by the same men. I would speak of this matter a little more fully, but I am convinced that the decision will be made before you receive this letter. I will only remark that so far as I have observed, I can not call to mind one intelligent soldier and a brave one who is willing to support the Chicago Platform. Many love the name of McClellan, but are dissatisfied with his associates, Vallandigham, for example, who is thoroughly despised even by Democratic Soldiers.

Changes are being constantly wrought in our Regiment. Captain A. J. Compton, of Company B, one of the oldest and most experienced Captains in the Regiment has resigned his commission and is on his way home.

By the recent promotions we have a full number of Field Officers, the Staff and Line Officers places are or soon will be filled. I believe we still lack a Chaplain— This post has been vacant for nearly two years, at least but nominally filled. There has been but little attention paid to this matter by the officers and none at all by our friends at home. The neglect has been severely felt, no less keenly, because we cannot make our wants known from our dependant condition. It is not too late to mend the matter.

Hoping that this will prove of interest to your friends and subscribers, I am

FRANK WHEEEEE

Letter from the 141st Regiment.

BIVOUAC OF THE 141ST REG'T, N. Y. V.,
Near Alatoona, Georgia,
June 9th, 1864.

EDITOR OF EXPRESS, DEAR SIR:—As many of your numerous readers have friends and relatives in the 141st, I trust to be pardoned for writing you a short letter, containing a brief account of what we have been doing since the Spring campaign opened in this Department.

We broke camp at Shell Mound, Tenn., on Monday, May 2d, joined our corps, the 20th, commanded by the gallant Joe Hooker, marched directly to Chattanooga, and from there took the line of march "Dixie-ward," passing over the Chickamauga battle-field. Here we beheld some revolting sights, especially for troops moving toward the front. In many places the fallen heroes had been piled in heaps and hardly covered with earth; in many places arms, legs, hands, &c., were seen protruding from the soil. These bodies will eventually be disinterred and removed to the cemetery at Chattanooga.

We passed to the right of Ringold, some three miles. At Tunnel Hill and Buzard's Roost the enemy were found in very strong positions, and seemed to bid defiance to our further progress. Considerable skirmishing was done, May 7th and 8th, by Geary's and Butterfield's divisions of the 20th corps, which resulted in little more than finding the enemy in an almost impregnable position in the mountains of Georgia. A front attack would be madness. Accordingly a force sufficiently strong to show a front and hold the enemy's attention is left. The rest of the troops are moved, by night and day, thro' mountain passes, over almost impassible roads, until we "fetch up" 15 miles in the rear of Johnson's army, and at least eight miles in the rear of Dalton. Johnson is flanked and nothing is left for him but to fight or retreat. Our boys are anxious for him to do the former, not that we are particularly fond of fighting, but if this is the only way to conquer, we would rather fight here than farther south. All due preparations are accordingly made for a battle; our ammunition is replenished, artillery is placed in position, breast-works are reared, forts constructed, &c. After waiting two days, and the enemy make no demonstrations, General Sherman determines to take the offensive himself. At an early hour on Friday morning, May 13th, the troops are in motion. Generals Thomas and McPherson, in command of the 14th and 23d corps, taking the advance, our corps remaining in the rear for a support. Hooker would have willingly taken the advance, but as he and his corps is from the Army of the Potomac, the western Generals wish to keep him back for fear he may gain more celebrity, as at Lookout Mountain last fall. But perhaps before this campaign comes to a close they will be glad to accept of his assistance. We will see what we shall see.

The entire day is spent in skirmishing, called "feeling" of the enemy, to ascertain his weakest point, &c. A severe battle is predicted for to-morrow. Friday night we all sleep on our arms, and, of course, sleep soundly; for who ever heard of a soldier sleeping otherwise.

Saturday morning dawns upon a cloudless sky; fighting commences at 8 o'clock a. m. As we are in the rear, and a dense woods is between us and the combatants, we can see nothing save the ghastly forms of the wounded men who are being borne to the rear, which is worse than fighting itself; but the roar of musketry and booming of artillery is almost deafening. It is now ascertained that Johnson has withdrawn his forces from Dalton to Resaca, a distance of 6 miles. Howard, in command of the 4th corps, is close in his "wake."— Our corps remains quiet until four p. m., when an order comes to Hooker to take his corps to the extreme left, for the purpose of relieving a portion of Howard's corps, which is being surrounded by superior numbers. Giving a few orders to be carried out by his aids, he mounts his horse and dashes off toward the scene of action, anxious, as he always is to be ahead. We soon follow, at a double-quick, a distance of two miles; we are drawing closer and closer to the field of strife; louder and louder roars the artillery, sharper and sharper are the reports of the musketry. Hooker has outstripped us and arrived at the scene of action; the small band of men are nearly surrounded; one battery has had its bugle sounded for the gunners to leave, but the presence of Hooker causes them to stop; his injunctions are, to hold their position five minutes, and he will give them all the support they need. They did hold out, and in less time than the General had stated, our division, commanded by Brigadier General Williams, came to the rescue.— The 3d brigade, commanded by Col. Robinson, being in the advance, were formed in line of battle and hurled with impetuosity upon the foe, who was advancing in a solid column for a final charge. One volley from these fresh troops is sufficient to arrest their further progress; at a second volley they broke and ran in confusion, our boys following and giving them a parting salute in their backs. Night coming on, we are left in possession of the field.— Howard's men were thus rescued; they gave three cheers for Hooker and his men. Many a soldier in Uncle Sam's domains might have been suffering in some Southern prison, had it not been for Hooker, on the 14th ult. We remained all night in line of battle, sleeping on our arms. Sunday morning dawned upon a cloudless sky; the sun rose in all its loveliness, the birds sang as sweetly as if no man had ever cursed this once happy country; all nature seemed to put forth its loveliest hues. A person not conversant with the previous few days' proceedings would hardly have dreamed, from the appearance, that two hostile armies were within forty rods of each other, preparing for a deadly contest.— What a contrast between the proceedings here, on this the Lord's day, and our own quiet Northern homes, at the same hour. On the one hand they are preparing for Church, or Sabbath School, while on the other we are preparing for battle by replenishing our ammunition boxes, filling haversacks with hard-tack, pork, &c. At 12 o'clock, noon, the bugle sounded to fall in and advance. In less time than it takes to write, we are in line of battle, and moving towards the enemy. Crack! crack! goes the musketry! bang! peals the artillery; the bullets begin to whiz around ears; we are getting closer and closer to the enemy; we come to a piece of woods which, owing to the underbrush, is hard to penetrate, but after some severe work, we arrive on the opposite side; we are now in sight of the rebels; the balls come thick and fast; we are not close enough to the enemy to render them any material damage, so we lie down under cover of a friendly knoll; we remain here three hours; the enemy are seen to form outside of their breastworks, and advance towards us; on they come, firing all the while, most of the shots passing over our heads; they advance to within eight rods of our lines; we wait no longer; each man arises and discharges his piece, and reloads; the fight now became general, and lasted an hour and a half.— At five p. m. we were relieved, having been under fire five hours, and during this time the enemy had made three charges but were repulsed every time. The loss sustained by the 141st was 14 killed and 84 wounded; something over one-fourth of our men.

Our company, A, had two killed, John Hager and H. B. Griffin, both of Hector, and two wounded, Capt. Ross, of Reading, in the foot, and J. Dimmock, of Hector, in the arm. During the night the rebels left the field, and retreated towards Kingston, we remaining. We visited the battle-field, carried off all the dead and gave them a soldier's burial in a fine grove of young oaks. After the dead were properly cared for, we follow with the rest of the army in pursuit of Johnson. He was driven successively from Resaca, Cassville, Rome, and Kingston, not daring to make another stand until near the range of mountains, known as the Alatoona range. Here it was found that he had intrenched himself, intending to make a desperate stand. Our division being in advance of the corps were the first to be engaged. The fight came off on Wednesday, May 25th. The entire division was engaged. Loss in killed, wounded, &c., about 800. The loss of our Regiment was 5 killed and 20 wounded. Co. A, one killed, Oscar Griffin, of Hector, and two wounded, Serg't Wm. J. Bryan, of Havana, in the arm, and Eugene Hubble, of Hector, in the head. Since the fight all has been comparatively quiet along the lines. Skirmishing is going on constantly, though the rebels are said to be falling back; but owing to the natural defences of the country they have the advantage.

For some days our pickets and those of the rebels have joined, and they have made arrangements not to fire at each other; and judging from the quiet state of affairs along the lines, should conclude they were living up to their agreement. This picket firing amounts to nothing to either side, and keeps the troops in a constant state of excitement. The rebels seem very friendly, and exchange papers, trade tobacco for coffee, &c.; but I hear the order to fall in and must close.

For the benefit of those having friends in this Regiment, I would state that, those of us who are left, some 200, are in good spirits and feel as well as men could under the circumstances. During the recent campaign we have lost some of our best boys, and their friends may rest assured that their names will not be forgotten by those of us who remain to help prosecute the war for the suppression of the rebellion. It is hard to part with those who have been with us and done their whole duty for a year and a half; still such is the fortune of war, and we must submit.

I remain, yours &c.,

A MEMBER OF CO. A.

List of the 141st N. Y. V., who Died During the Siege of Savannah.

Dec. 13th.—Ira C. Dowd, aged 24 years, 141st New York Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, debility.

Dec. 15th.—Andrew Cretsley, aged 31 years, 141st New York Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, Typhoid Fever.

Wm. Vaughn, aged 35 years, 141st New York Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, Typhoid Fever.

All of the above were interred in Wilkins' family burial ground, 4 1/2 miles west of Savannah, near the Charleston and Savannah Railroad.

Dec. 10th.—James D. Huff, aged 43 years, 141st New York Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, Typhoid Fever. The deceased was buried 9 1/2 miles from Savannah.

Dec. 10th.—Benj. S. Welch, aged 29 years,

141st New York Volunteers, 1st Brigade, 1st Division, Typhoid Fever. The deceased was buried 9 miles west from Savannah.

The above we take from the Savannah Republican of Jan. 3d, 1865.

HAVANA JOURNAL

HAVANA, N. Y.

The Havana Journal has a Circulation DOUBLE that of any other Paper in the County.

SATURDAY, June 17, 1865.

Grand Reception of Cos. A and B, 141st Regiment.

They are Welcomed by the Citizens in Grand Style!

Cos. A and B, Captains MITCHELL, and ROSS, under command of Lieut.-Col. CLAUHARTY, arrived in this village on Thursday afternoon last, and were received by a large concourse of people from all parts of the County. Mothers, Wives, Fathers and Brothers grasped their nearest kin by the hand, eager to catch one word from the lips of those with whom they parted some three years since; great were the expressions of joy exhibited by soldiers and friends as the boys in blue alighted from the cars. After the brief congratulations had been gone through with, the rank and file were marched up South Street to Genessee Street, thence down Main Street to the Montour House, where they were welcomed by Rev. J. ALABASTER, in a fitting and able manner. We cannot give the remarks of Mr. ALABASTER this morning, as it is already time we were to press. Lieut.-Col. CLAUHARTY being called upon, thanked the friends of the soldiers for the splendid reception given them, and spoke in glowing terms, in behalf of the two Companies, of the many acts of kindness by the citizens of Little Schuyler, in remembering them while in the field. Col. CLAUHARTY'S remarks were brief necessarily, and after he had concluded, the men were marched into the hotel, and there partook of the many rich and varied dishes, which the good taste and liberal hand of Mr. HAGER, the landlord, always selects for such an occasion.

After the soldiers had concluded their "lunch," Col. CLAUHARTY appeared upon the balcony and gave a brief history of the Regiment, of which we are unable to speak at length, as our space will not admit this morning. Each man was running over with expressions of gratitude that they were once more at home, and now could mingle with friends around the family hearthstone, and relate the stories of the past, the sufferings, hard marches, terrible battles, and many adventures which are incident to army life.

Capt. A. J. Compton, formerly Captain of one of the Companies, labored unceasingly to bring the program of reception to completion, and with the assistance of the ladies of village, made it a grand affair. The citizens are indebted to him, and others, for the success we met with. The Havana Brass Band also, come in for a share of the public thanks, for their assistance on this occasion. Their patriotic music added fuel to the rising element of happy greeting. All in all, it was a pleasant time, and will be remembered by all, as a gala day for Havana. We welcome our noble defenders home, and may they now, as they return to civil pursuits, become the same good citizens as they were soldiers.

WATKINS EXPRESS.

WATKINS, N. Y.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1865.

Historical Record of Company A, 141st N. Y. S. Volunteers.

The following record of Company A, 141st Regiment, N. Y. V., is taken from the Muster-out Roll prepared by Captain Wm. P. Ross. It shows the condition of the Company when mustered out, and also those discharged, transferred, died and deserted since the original organization of the Company. It is believed to be mainly correct, although it doubtless contains a few errors. This record will be valuable, especially to those who have claims against the Government for back pay, bounty, pensions, &c., and should be carefully preserved.

COMPANY A AS MUSTERED OUT.

William P. Ross, Captain, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 1, 1863; paid to Feb. 28, 1865; wounded at Resaca, Ga., May 15, 1864.

Charles A. Coryell, 1st Lieut., Havana; joined service Nov. 14, 1862; mustered in Apr. 1, 1863; paid to Apr. 1, 1865.

Donald Macdonald, 1st Sergt., Havana; joined service Aug. 27, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; wounded at Peach Tree Creek, Ga., July 20, 1864; right leg amputated; promoted to 1st Sergt. Nov. 1, 1864, commissioned as 2d Lieut.; received $40 pay.

Morris Weaver, Sergt., Montour; joined service Aug. 11, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1865.

Frank M. Wheeler, Sergt., Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to May 31, 1864.

George R. Downing, Sergt., Havana; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

John E. Culver, Sergt., Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Wesley Ammack, Corporal, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

David L. Smith, Corporal, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Charles Rully, Corporal, Piermont; joined service Aug. 22, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864; received a severe contusion in action at Dallas, Ga., May 25, 1864.

Daniel B. Hurley, Corporal, Reading; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Leander S. Chamberlin, Corporal, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Alfred Dalriddle, Corporal, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Wm. H. Vanwormer, Corporal, Hector; joined service Aug. 29, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Isaac M. Peck, Corporal, Catharine; joined service Aug. 26, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

David Eacker, Musician, Montour; joined service Aug. 30, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862.

John M. Cole, Musician, Reading; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Edward McClarry, Wagoner, Cayuta; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

PRIVATEES.

Samuel Ayers, Jerusalem; joined service Aug. 20, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

John Byron, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

William T. Bowlby, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Richard M. Blain, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Nelson Bacon, Jr., Cayuta; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Lewis Bailey, Elmira; joined service Aug. 21, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

John R. Bach, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

James Cornell, Bradford; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

William B. Clawson, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; received contusion in action at Dallas, Ga., May 25, 1864.

George Christjohn, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

William A. Carley, Hector; joined service Aug. 25, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1865.

Abram W. Dalriddle, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Jefferson Dimick, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864; wounded at Resaca, Ga., May 15, 1864.

John Dewitt, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.
Abialtha Doane, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

John Dane, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; wounded at Lost Mountain Jan. 15, 1864.
Benjamin H. Fish, Havana; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1864.

William W. Gustin, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Albert H. Ganung, Perry City; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1865.

Eugene Hubbel, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; wounded at Dallas, Ga., May 25, '64.

Stephen W. Hurley, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863.

David Hicks, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to June 30, 1864.

John E. Hyles, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Garret Harring, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Charles R. Johnson, Reading; joined service Sept. 3, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

James M. Johnson, Hector; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Hiram Lamoreaux, Lodi; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

George Lowry, Mecklinburg; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Edwin McClarry, Cayuta; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Nicholas W. Mathews, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Robert McCombs, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Henry Newcomb, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863.

John Ober, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Harlow Phelps, Hartsville; joined service Sept. 10, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Burritt Pierce, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1865.

William T. Parker, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Isaac N. Slaght, Hector; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Samuel H. Slaght, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Jacob F. Sutherland, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Charles F. Simpson, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.

Cornelius Thompson, Hector; joined service Aug. 30, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863.

Warren G. Woodward, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864; wounded in skirmish Jan. 15, 1864.

John Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864.
Barnett Collins, Tyrone; joined service Sept. 9, 1864; mustered in Sept. 9, 1864.

DISCHARGED.

C. W. Clauharty, Captain, Havana; mustered in Sept. 11, 1862; paid to May 31, 1863; discharged by reason of promotion to Major, 141st N. Y. V., May 31, 1863.

John Strowbridge, 1st Lieut., Hector; mustered in Sept. 1, 1863; promoted to 1st Lieut. Sept. 1st, 1863; discharged by reason of disability July 22, 1864.

William J. Bryan, 1st Lieut., Havana; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Oct. 29, '64; paid to Dec. 31, '63; promoted to 1st Lieut. Oct. 29, '64; wounded at Dallas, Ga., May 25, '64; discharged the service of U. S. Jan. 22, 1865.

George Peiterson, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; discharged from service of the U. S. at Maddison Post Hospt., Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3, 1864, on Surg. Cert.

Franklin F. Chandler, Sergt., Hector; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to June 30, 1863; discharged from service of U. S. at General Hospital, Washington, D. C., by order of Gen. Martindale.

Charles O. Durkee, Corporal, Havana; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864; discharged from service of U. S. by special, from War Dept., 188, on the 25th day of May, 1865.

Warren N. Hurley, Private, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Apr. 30, 1863; discharged from service of U. S. on Surgeon's Certificate of disability, from General Hospital Washington, D. C., July 30, 1863.

Daniel Shannon, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 30, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to June 30, 1863; discharged from service of U. S. at General Hospital Washington, D. C., Nov. 21, 1863, by order of Gen. Martindale.

John B. Wasson, Private, Dix; joined service Aug. 15, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1862; discharged from service of U. S. at General Hospital Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 6, 1863, on certificate of disability.

TRANSFERRED.

John Gordon, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; transferred to the Invalid Corps before Aug. 31, '63, exact date unknown; reason: Co. rec'ds. lost.

Franklin Jackson, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1862; transferred to the Invalid Corps, date unknown, by reason of loss of Co. records.

Benjamin Smalley, Private, Big Flats; joined service Aug. 18, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1863; transferred to the Invalid Corps in April, 1864, exact date unknown because of loss of Co. records.

Florren Snyder, Private, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1864; transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps Jan. 25, 1864, by reason of instructions from Provost Marshal General.

George Williams, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Sept. 14, 1862; transferred to the Invalid Corps, exact date unknown because of loss of Co. records.

George Willover, Private, Dix; joined service Aug. 20, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1862; transferred to Inv. Corps, exact date unknown, reason: loss of Co. rec'ds.

DIED.

Charles F. Babbitt, 1st Sergt., Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died on the 21st day of Feb. 1864, of wound received in the right arm at the Battle of Peach Tree Creek; commissioned 1st Lieut. but not mustered.

James C. Bartt, Sergt., Elmira; joined service Aug. 21, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died on the 26th day of July, 1864, of wound received in forehead, in battle of Peach Tree Creek.

William W. Koons, Sergt., Reading; joined service Aug. 16, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died on the 4th of Aug., 1864; at Kingston, Ga., of wound received in leg at Peach Tree Creek.

Curtis J. Chamberland, Corporal, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; died of Typhoid Pneumonia Nov. 23, 1863, Nashville, Tenn.

Hiram H. Platt, Corporal, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea July 9, 1864, at Townsend, N. Y., on furlough.

Asa Bullard, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; killed in action at Peach Tree Creek, Ga., July 20, 1864.

Chester K. Chapman, Private, Orange; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1863; died of Rheumatism and Diarrhea at Loudon, Tenn., Dec. 6, '62.

Delos Dimick, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 29, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea Nov. 14, 1863, at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

George Dalrimple, Private, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea at Murfreesboro, Tenn., in Oct., 1863.

Jackson Dickens, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 16, 1862; died at Nelson Hospital, Yorktown, Va., June 1, 1863.

Henry B. Griffin, Private, Catharine; joined service Aug. 26, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; killed in action at Resaca, Ga., May 15, 1864.

Oscar C. Griffin, Private, Catharine; joined service Aug. 21, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; killed in action at Dallas, Ga., May 25, 1864.

Franklin C. Grant, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; died at Bridgeport, Ala., Nov. 10, 1863, of wound received in action at Wauhatche Valley Oct. 28, 1863.

John Hager, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; killed in action at Resaca, Ga., May 15, 1864.

Horace W. Hart, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to June 30, 1863; died of Typhoid Fever at Hampton Hospital, July 14, 1863.

Daniel McClarry, Private, Cayuta; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea in Hospital No. 1, Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 14, 1863.

Stephen Meade, Private, Tyrone; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Dec. 31, 1863; died of contusion in lower abdomen on the 30th of July, 1864, in Hospital at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Henry Miller, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 30, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1863; killed by the accidental discharge of his own gun Dec. 5, 1863, near Loudon, East Tenn.

Daniel C. Norris, Private, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; died of Typhoid Fever Jan. 6, 1863, at Miners Hill, Va., (near Falls Church.)

Dewitt C. Primmer, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Sept. 14, 1862; died of Typhoid Fever Nov. 2, 1862, at Laurel Factory, Md.

Francis L. Royce, Private, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea June 29, 1864, at Kingston, Ga., (in Hospital.)

William W. Sutton, Private, Reading; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Feb. 28, 1863; died of Typhoid Fever July 2, 1863, at Williamsburg, Va.

Charles D. Van Vleet, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Apr. 30, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea at Nashville, Tenn., in Hospital No. 1, on Apr. 13, 1864.

Irving Wetherill, Private, Dix; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Oct. 31, 1863; died of Chronic Diarrhea Apr. 13, 1864, at Townsend N. Y., on furlough.

OLIVER G. CHANDLER, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 30, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to June 30, 1863; deserted from the Hospital in Washington during the summer of 1863, date unknown, from loss of Co. records.

Henry Havens, Private, Hector; joined service Aug. 14, 1862; mustered in Sept. 10, 1862; paid to Aug. 31, 1863; missing in action Wauhatche Junction, Tenn., Oct. 28, 1863—believed that he then deserted.

From the 141st.

Elsewhere will be found a list of the killed and wounded of the 141st Regt. Among the killed, we find the name of JACKSON McDONALD, son of Wm. McDONALD of Havana. Wm. STANLEY, of Odessa, lost two fingers and a thumb. ISAIAH FORREST, of Havana, was wounded in the hand.

from Miner's Hill to Arlington Heights. At this time Col. Hathway and Lieut. Col. Beecher resigned their respective positions. Major Dinniny was promoted to the Colonelship. Captain Wm. K. Logie, Co. E, was advanced to be Lieut. Colonel, and Captain E. L. Patrick, Co. I to be Major.

April 15th the Division broke camp and was sent to Suffolk, Va., to the Department then commanded by Gen. Dix.

That vicinity was soon relieved of the presence of the rebels, and the regiment was not engaged in any general battle. May 3d it was ordered back via Fortress Monroe, to West Point, up York River, at the junction of the Matapony and Pamunkey rivers. Gen. Gordon now assumed command of the division, numbering 7000 men of all arms. The Regiment tarried three weeks, and engaged in building breast-works and fortifications until the command was suddenly ordered back to Yorktown. While here, Col. Dinniny resigned his commission, and Lieut. Col. Logie was promoted to the vacant place, Major Patrick to the Lieut. Colonelship, and Captain Chas. W. Clauberty, Co. A, senior Captain, whose just rights had been hitherto ignored, was advanced to the majorship.

June 9th the Regiment took up the march to Williamsburg. The weather on this march was exceedingly hot and dry, and the men suffered extremely from the excessive heat.

June 11th the march was resumed, reaching Deascund Bridge June 13th, where it remained until the 26th, far in advance of the rest of the troops, in a low, marshy and unhealthy locality, and the duty was constant, onerous and harassing. At this point it had its first brush with the enemy exchanging its first shots. David McCann, Co. D, was the first victim to rebel bullets—shot by a bushwhacker. A great many of these were about and from their secret haunts, constantly came out to shoot pickets and cut off stragglers.

On June 26th the Regiment resumed its march to the White House and joined Gen. Dix's whole command numbering some 25,000 or 30,000, upon an expedition towards Richmond, which should have been captured at that time, while Lee and the rebels hosts were in Maryland. Gordon's division advanced far as Bottom Bridge, only twelve miles from Richmond, skirmishing frequently with the enemy, and getting their first experiences of shot and shell.

Engagements were frequent between the pickets, but no general battle took place until the 8th of July, when orders were received to abandon the expedition and the troops were transferred to the Army of the Potomac. For four or five months the bill of fare served up partook of so much sameness that the Regiment suffered extremely in general health. Their staple diet, as well as luxuries, consisted of hard tack, bacon and coffee served up ad infinitum with no ringing of the changes. July 8th it took up the line of march to Williamsburg. The severity of the campaign was now apparent in the hard marches it made. Rain fell in torrents during the whole of the day; twenty-seven miles were gained through mud and rain, to find a watery couch at night. The next day the weather was so hot that the men's feet were scalded in their wet shoes and stockings. Hundreds went into Yorktown barefooted and feet blistering sore; but there could be no delay, it was laid out to capture Lee in Maryland. The Regiment left this place by transport and periana, Tennessee and Ohio. made for Ringold to attack the rebels under Gen. Hood.

The battle of Resaca followed that of Ringold, in which the Regiment lost 95 men in killed and wounded. Lieut. Barber, universally respected as a christian and courteous gentleman and courageous officer fell instantly killed. It also fought gallantly at Dallas, Pine Mountain, Marietta, and at Peach Tree Creek. In the latter battle Col. Logie was mortally wounded, and died in a few hours. Lt. Warren was shot through the heart both brave and noble officers. Lieut. Babitt was mortally wounded, dying the next morning.

Lieut. Col. A. J. McNett, who had been appointed to the position late in the December previous, in place of Lieut. Col. Patrick, resigned, lost his right arm. Major Clauberty, Adjutant Hazard and Lieut. Shappce were severely wounded. Captain Townsend and Lieut. Willor were slightly wounded. Half the Regiment were disabled but it stood its ground nobly. Victory continued to perch on their banners. More fighting was at hand, and Atlanta fell Sept. 2d. The 20th corps having previously fallen back to the Chattohochee, as a feint to the enemy, and to cover the rear of the Union army was the first to enter Atlanta.

Lieut. Col. McNett was promoted to be Colonel, Major C. W. Clauberty to be Lieut. Colonel, Captain Baldwin to be Major, and Adjutant Hazard to a captaincy, Lieut. Geo. B. Gray to be adjutant.

Soon after the famous march to Savannah, through Georgia, began. Then Sherman's resistless legions swept northward through the Carolinas, toward Virginia, constantly engaged in skirmishing with the enemy, but taking part in no general engagements until Bentonville was reached. Here, amid swamps and under every discouragement, our brave boys gained their last great battle. During the Carolina march the Regiment was commanded in the absence of Col. McNett on account of his wound, on detached duty successively by the field officers present and Captain Merrill. Col. McNett rejoined his Regiment at Raleigh, North Carolina.

After Johnson's surrender, the march was taken homeward to Alexandria and Washington. It encamped, until mustered, after the grand review, this side of Washington, at Clark's Mills. Until transportation was ready to bring it home. — Elmira Adv.

iment left this place by transport and proceeded direct to Washington and Frederick City, Maryland, arriving there July 10th. The same night the whole Federal army made a safe retreat across the Potomac. Gordon's division was now disbanded and the troops transferred to the 11th and 12th Corps. The 11th was assigned to the 2d Brigade, 3d Division, 11th Corps, Gen. Howard commanding, the corps, Carl Schurz, the division, and Col. Krzyzanowski, the brigade. The Regiment