

THE WELCOME HOME.

Yesterday was a great day for Utica. before were so many people gathered in streets, never before were our buildings with decorations, never before was so much unanimity manifested in a public demonstration. The town kept jubilee, and all the country about came in to swell the celebration. Many people were congregated we can not we have heard the number estimated at thousands. Every body who could come in or boat, by stage or private conveyance, and the crowd was altogether the greatest assembled here. The pageant was an honor to our city as well as to the recipients of it come.

The procession was a splendid success. The Fire Department never made a better show of local military were out in full force. The Templars and Reclabites were prominent. And the heroes of the day, veterans of the Virginia and Maryland campaigns, with torn and tattered banners, and their clothes and swarthy brows, bore with them the memory of all their battles, the glories of their campaigns. Yet imposing as was the occasion, it faded in the presence of that concourse of people, gay with the colors of female's dress, filling the streets, crowding every window balcony, and crowning the roofs.

The scene was beautiful and it was impressive. It was a spontaneous expression of the loyalty of all our people. It was an indication of the feelings of our community of all our neighbors, for the Union and its preservation. For this pageant was to render honor to those who had periled their lives for the Republic. It was an endorsement for the cause of Volunteers maintained, as well as for their fidelity in its behalf. It was hearty and unanimous; one could stand against the current of patriotism. This was the great idea of the day: LOYALTY. And next to this was the idea: MEN WHO FIGHT THE COUNTRY'S BATTLES RECEIVE ITS UNSTINTED HONORS. These were our fellow citizens who went out two years ago. They come home now and are greeted as never before we men welcomed in Central New York. A unanimous people applaud their acts. Old men and fair maidens welcome them; eloquence and beauty praise them; all that is noble and of good repute commend them.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

These were the first of our regiments to go forth. They return at the appointed time. We have other regiments in the field. They need help and support. The return of these veterans leaves a sad gap in our army. It needs to be filled. In that vast company that gathered to this proud welcome was the material for several regiments of efficient men. The country requires them. Opportunity is afforded for volunteers. Unless they step forward the conscription must come. Surely there are hundreds of young men ready for a service so heartily approved and so generously rewarded. The pageant to the returning regiments looks forward as well as backward. It was a recognition of loyalty and fidelity in the past. It was no less an inspiration to new zeal for the Union, and to the organization of new regiments to fill the places of the brave men who return. It was a recognition of duties done; it was an incentive and encouragement to like duties yet before us.

The flag of the 26th is pierced with over 50 bullet holes, and has passed through 13 battles. It was first damaged at Bull Run, where a rebel shell tore open the field of stars. The eagle of the staff has been shot off.

The 26th also bore the dingy remnant of a flag, which we found, on inquiry, to be the flag of the brigade to which they were attached—2d Brigade of 2d Division of 1st Army Corps. Eighty bullet holes have been counted in it. We have before stated that the flag of the 14th has been pierced by thirty-three rebel bullets, and that six men have been shot down beneath it. Glorious records are these, boys.

We have published accounts of some of the enthusiastic welcomes received by the 14th along their route from Washington. And we should now state that the course of the 26th has also been a series of triumphs. Crowds turned out to greet them at almost every village between Elmira and Utica. The two regiments are equally brave and worthy, and merit equal honor.

We ought to mention perhaps the presentation to Col. RICHARDSON of a magnificent bouquet, on Chancellor Square, the gift of Mrs. E. N. GILBERT.

We notice that the regiments bring back with them a slight sprinkling of contrabands. The people were pleased with their appearance yesterday.

THE EVENING.

The festivities of the day were spiritedly kept up until late in the evening. The streets presented every where little groups gathered around returned braves, to render their congratulations and welcome. The hotels were full of visitors eagerly listening to the story of camp and battle field from those who had so recently experienced their privations and dangers, and everywhere the city showed tokens of animated happiness.

At ten o'clock the Albany Brass Band serenaded Col. McQUADE with a selection of choice airs beautifully executed. The Colonel gave a sumptuous entertainment, at his residence, to the officers of the returned regiments and a large party of friends.

The day is ended. Its glorious and ever memorable scenes are now history. It has been a day of untold rejoicings, and a few sad, but not bitter remembrances. Scarcely one untoward thing has occurred to mar its happiness. It has been bright, beautiful, sublime. Citizens and soldiers will remember it forever.

We append the names of the officers of the regiments, to which we should also have added those of the privates but that the Adjutants were not prepared to furnish them.

OFFICERS OF THE TWENTY-SIXTH.
Colonel, R. H. Richardson; Lieutenant Colonel, G. S. Jennings.
Major, E. F. Wetmore.
Surgeon, Walter B. Coventry; Assistant, I. H. Searle.

Adjutant, Charles Ackerman.
Quartermaster, Dewitt C. Starring.
Co. A.—Captain, J. T. Kingsbury; First Lieutenant, William H. Halstead; Second Lieutenant, John Bevin.
Co. B.—Captain, William J. Harlow; First Lieutenant, Martin H. Dunham.
Co. C.—Captain, Enoch Jones; First Lieutenant, William H. Milstead.
Co. D.—Lieutenant A. D. Lynch, commanding; Second Lieutenant, Oliver Cooley.
Co. E.—Captain, Norman W. Palmer; First Lieutenant, Charles Schmidt; Second Lieutenant, Joseph Kleinfield.
Co. F.—Captain, George A. Blackwell; First Lieutenant, William H. Sanford; Second Lieutenant, Valentine Peters.
Co. G.—Captain, L. Frank Binder; First Lieutenant, John S. Jennings; Second Lieutenant, Swan.

Co. H.—Captain, E. A. Rosslein; First Lieutenant, Jabez Miller; Second Lieutenant, Chas. Hall.
Co. I.—Captain, James McLaughlin; First Lieutenant, William G. Gifford.
Co. K.—Captain, Emmett Harder; First Lieutenant, W. G. Halstead; Second Lieutenant, Aaron Adams.

Cos. A, B, C, E, F and I were enlisted from this county; Co. D from Hamilton, Madison county; G and H from Rochester; Co. K from Tioga county.

Killed.—Captains Cossleman, Davis, Jennings, Adjutant Bacon, Lieutenant Leonard.
Wounded.—Officers and men 363, some of whom have died in hospital.
Men killed and missing, 145.
Strength of the regiment, January 1, 1862, 872.

Brought home, May 20, 1863, 350. Some have been left as three years' men.

LIST OF OFFICERS OF THE FOURTEENTH.

The following is the list of the Fourteenth:
Colonel, James McQuade; Lieutenant Colonel, T. M. Davies.
Major, L. Michel.
Surgeon, A. Churchill; Assistant Surgeons, P. W. Shufelt, W. Ingraham.
Adjutant, T. Manning.
Quartermaster, W. Brodhead.

Company A.—Captain, H. Goss; First Lieutenant, J. Miller; Second Lieutenant, G. W. Abby.
Company B.—First Lieutenant Commanding, A. G. Spencer; Second Lieutenant, J. H. Snyder.

Company C.—Captain, F. M. Butler; First Lieutenant, P. D. Alfater; Second Lieutenant, A. J. Heffron.
Company D.—Captain, W. L. Cowan; First Lieutenant, M. McQuade, Jr.; Second Lieutenant, T. L. Ostrom.

Company E.—Captain, E. Warr; First Lieutenant, A. B. Grunwell; Second Lieutenant, D. F. Tyrrell.
Company F.—Captain, C. W. Muller; First Lieutenant, W. A. Rowan; Second Lieutenant, G. E. Buss.

Company G.—Captain, J. Stryker, Jr.; First Lieutenant, W. D. Bowers; Second Lieutenant, H. Duffy.
Company H.—Captain, R. H. Foote; First Lieutenant, G. E. Gee; Second Lieutenant, J. Herron.
Company I.—Captain, H. R. Lahee; First Lieutenant, S. W. Hazen; Second Lieutenant, W. Edmans.

Company K.—Captain, W. H. Seymour; First Lieutenant, W. H. Ellis; Second Lieutenant, J. S. Reynolds.

The regiment has lost in killed and died of wounds about 100. It has 275 wounded, and no missing. Its strength January 1st 1862 was 900; it brings home 340 to be permanently mustered out.

—In Troy, a few days ago, a lady aged eighty-one years, was knocked down and fatally injured by two furious cows, which a man was driving in a careless manner. After she fell, the man passed on, taking no notice of the victim of his recklessness.

They are a fine looking body of men, and made a grand appearance. Of the Odd Fellows in the line the Tri-Mount Encampment and Subordinate Past Grands, thirty in number, were mounted.—The Fire Companies made a brilliant turnout, and were greatly admired. Rescue's Carriage, bore the motto, "How are You, Vets." Borne before the Tigers were handsome portraits of McQUADE, Lieut. Col. DAVIS, and Capt. JAMES MILLER, all of the 14th, and all old members of the Company. A stuffed tiger, half couchant, rode on their carriage, with evergreens and flowers beneath. It also bore the words, "Welcome Home, Welcome Home." Excelsior's Engine bore the portrait of Col. McQUADE, and was handsomely trimmed with evergreens. On Erin's Carriage was a beautiful and life like portrait of the brave and lamented Adjutant Bacon. On that of Protection Hose was a striking likeness of the gallant Major MICHAELS; above, a stuffed American Eagle with spread wings, and the words "Welcome Braves." Neptune's Carriage was handsomely flagged. The Monitor Hose Carriage had a prettily flowered evergreen tree. Rough and Ready's bore a Goddess of Liberty. P. CARMODY, of the gunboat Seneca, carried a flag for Niagara Hose. The number of carriages in the Procession was fifteen, and a carryall for the discharged soldiers.

An attractive object in the line was the beautiful charger of Adjutant Bacon, with black network and caparisons.

THE PROCESSION MOVES.

And now the Grand Procession moves down John and up Genesee. The sidewalks, the tops of the buildings, the doors, the windows, the balconies, and all other available standing and sitting places, as far as the eye can see, are crowded with gazing and shouting people, who wave innumerable banners and handkerchiefs as they pass. Over Arch 2 are 80 young ladies of the First Department of the Advanced School, who, directed by Prof. BANCROFT, sing "Home, Sweet Home," and wave white handkerchiefs as the braves come up. The effect is electrifying, and many of the veterans shed joyful tears. On the balcony of the Devereux Block they are greeted by "Hail Columbia," from 150 boys and misses of the Second Department. Over Arch 3 are 80 misses of the Third Department, also led by Prof. BANCROFT—34 of them in white to represent the States—who strike up "My Country! 'tis of thee," for the third choral greeting. Seated in and before the piazza of the Ladies' Summary are about one hundred beautiful young ladies, elegantly dressed, who wave their greetings. Further on an aged man stands out in the center of the street and gives expression to his emotion by uncovering his head as the Procession passes. The line is seen to extend from Baggs Square to Rebecca street, about one mile.

On to Oneida Square, to Bridge, to South—bells ringing, bands playing, cannon pealing. At Arch 4 the brave men are again greeted with a choral song—"God Bless our Native Land"—by a large choir of adults and children, and by a bewildering display of flags and handkerchiefs. Three pretty little girls stand in front, dressed, one in red, another in white, and the third in blue, with wreaths and sashes to correspond—a charming picture. On through Seymour avenue and Raizer, with crowds still at the windows, doors, and along the sidewalks, and beautiful decorations everywhere. The same through Court, and another song—"The Star Spangled Banner"—chanted at the Arch 5. The same through Variet, Fayette, (Washington, Whitesboro, and the rest of the course. When Chancellor Square is reached another magnificent picture of faces appears. There is a dense mass of people surrounding the large Square—we should judge ten or fifteen thousand. The soldiers file in, and are soon seated before the bountiful and tempting banquet.

THE COLLATION.

The tables constituted a huge parallelogram within Chancellor Square, 150 by 250 feet, covered with white cloth, and substantial seats for the soldiers. Within, placed at regular intervals, were side tables for the convenience of the willing waiters—that is, the members of the Ladies' and Gentlemen's Committees, who acted in that capacity. In the center was a Coffee House, 20 by 39 feet, containing five stoves, whence about one hundred gallons of the delicious beverage were distributed among the hungry braves. The 14th filed around the West section of the parallelogram and the 26th around the East section, the respective Colonels of the two regiments, with their staffs and the field officers occupying the center of each end. It would be impossible to overpraise the dear ladies who provided the banquet, and tripped prettily to and fro with willing heads and hearts, smiling the while like angels, and talking cheerily to their bronzed guests. Shall we attempt to enumerate the substantial and delicacies provided? There were piles of oranges within evergreen wreaths, biscuits, sandwiches, cold tongue, ham and other meats, beautiful pies of all sorts, uncounted varieties of beautiful cakes, pork and beans, the whole list of pickles, cheese, salads, jellies—but why proceed with the enumeration? The task would be too long. We happened to notice one large frosted cake highly ornate, with cannon on the top, and the motto, in red letters, "Welcome to our Brave Defenders—Union Forever." This beautiful sample of cookery was furnished by Mrs. SCHWAB, of 5th Ward. Pretty bouquets, surmounted by tiny flags, adorned the tables at intervals, and a profusion of flags besides. It did all hearts good to witness the vigorous discussion of the entables by the soldiers.

CLOSING PROCEEDINGS, ETC.

All appetites were soon appeased, when the drums beat, the rifles and knapsacks were again shouldered, and the men moved in the direction of the quarters that had been provided for them at the Court House and City Hall by Lieut. CAUSTEN; not, however, before there were many joyful meetings and warm embracings with dear ones in waiting, and old acquaintances. In front of their quarters and at Franklin Square the greetings were continued. It was a sight worth going a thousand miles to see.

The tattered colors of the regiments were proudly carried and proudly regarded; soldiers and friends were proud of the honorable history they told—and that their former beauty had given place to the marks of hard-fought battles.

with no cause to justify it—a war only intensified in its wickedness by its pericidal character. The government, which is but the chosen agency of the people, were driven to resort to arms to maintain the integrity of the nation, and preserve its inestimable blessings. It appealed to the patriotism of the people, to rally around the country's standard and uphold it. The uprising that followed it was one of the grandest exhibitions of patriotism the world has ever witnessed. It evidenced to the world the cause of free government was safe in our hands and would be sustained at all hazards, and at whatever cost.

The appeal was no more to you than to those of your fellow citizens who remained. You had no more interest in maintaining our institutions than we. Their blessings, like the dews of heaven fall alike on us all. All alike the recipients of their blessings: all alike before God and man, under the highest of all human obligations to maintain them. But you, you on the first call of the Republic, you answered the demands of patriotism, and rallied with alacrity to the defense of your country, in the hour of her peril, and from that time to this you have devoted yourselves to her service and periled your lives in her cause. It was a timely service to the great cause of humanity. It was an exhibition of that heaven-born patriotism which has in all ages, and ever will call forth the plaudits of the great and good. Our hearts have been with you in all the perils you have encountered. When your active campaigns commenced we watched your progress with deep interest, from Cedar Mountain to the terrible ordeal of Fredericksburg. We sympathized with your misfortunes in that perilous campaign of Gen. Pope in Virginia, the result of which we feel assured no action of yours could have changed. When the rebel hosts, flushed with victory, were with demonic energy pushing their legions through Maryland for the very heart of the free States, we followed you with breathless interest under your new commander from victory to victory through the short successful campaign of Maryland, which culminated in the signal triumph of Antietam and turned back the tide of invasion. We watched your march back to Fredericksburg in pursuit of the retreating enemy. That the battle of Fredericksburg was not a signal victory instead of the terrible disaster it was, was no fault of the 26th. The officers and men of your regiment engaged in that battle were conspicuous for their valor. When the soul of Bacon winged its way to a better world, and so many of your comrades bore the indubitable marks which heroic bravery so often brings from the battle-field, no stain of that disaster was left on your escutcheon.

From the time you commenced your campaign under Gen. Pope to the close of the battle of Chancellorville, no citizen soldier in the same period ever had more varied experience, encountered more perils, or exhibited more determined valor and heroic endurance than the army of which you formed a part. That army deserved success by its conduct. Victory belonged to that army, but it was robbed of the just fruits of its endurance and valor by causes over which you had no control.

You went forth to maintain the most sacred cause which has ever been submitted to the arbitrament of battles. Your thinned ranks were mournful, but pregnant evidence of the heroism and valor with which you sustained it. Having discharged the duties of citizen soldiers, and returned to the enjoyment of the institutions you have toiled to maintain, we congratulate you that notwithstanding the casualties of war, and the varying success of battle, your homes have been undisturbed, and those institutions yet remain to invite you to your accustomed avocations and to protect you in your peaceable pursuits.

You went forth about 800 strong; that we are permitted to welcome back to-day only 350, reminds us that God in his inscrutable wisdom, has determined that the sacrifices which were required to achieve our liberties and national existence, shall be required to maintain them—that we must emulate the virtues and patriotism of our fathers to be deemed worthy to enjoy the institutions their valor and wisdom bequeathed us.

While we feel a free citizen can lay down his life in no nobler cause than in the defense of his country, we mourn with you the necessity of the sacrifice. We mourn with you the loss of those who have sacrificed their lives upon the altar of their country, and will hold their names in grateful remembrance. We feel deep sympathy for their friends to whom they are lost for this world, and would cheerfully do what we can, to alleviate their sorrow. They have been actors in the most momentous period of their country's history, and have acted well. Their fame is secure. Cosselman, Bacon, Palmer, the dead and the wounded of your comrades, all the nation's blessings and the nation's remembrance is theirs.

History has recorded their patriotic devotion to the cause of their country, and that record will be read by succeeding generations, and their action applauded. Their and your action, and that of all those citizen soldiers in this war, Oneida has fondly called her own, form a part of the history of our country. That record shall be an enduring memorial of your services. In after ages, when thousands upon thousands of your fellow citizens shall be forgotten, that record will be read by millions of admiring people, and be yet more lustrous.

Officers and men of the 26th! Wherever in the Providence of God your lot shall be cast, you will bear with you the grateful remembrance of this people, and may the blessings of Almighty God attend you.

Col. Richardson replied in a few words, expressing thanks for himself and regiment, and their unbounded gratification. The Procession now took up the line of march.

ORDER OF PROCESSION.

Squad of Police.
FIRST DIVISION.
Major Z. C. PRIEST, Marshal of the Day.
Utica Encampment No. 3 K. T. Marshal.
Masonic Order.
Utica Cavalry Company.
Schreiber's Band, of Albany.
Forty-fifth Regiment N. Y. N. G.
Col. T. J. GRAY.
Composed as follows:
Condit's Martial Band.
Company A, Capt. Meyers.
Company G, Capt. Jones.
Company F, Capt. Clark.
Whitestown Seminary Corps, Capt. Winsor.
Company L, Capt. Brand.
Utica Cadets, Capt. J. B. Curran.
SECOND DIVISION.
Utica German Band.
Masonic Order.
Independent Order of Odd Fellows.
Tri-mount Encampment No. 24.
Oneida Lodge No. 70.
Shenandoah Lodge No. 95.
Schuyler Lodge No. 147.
Steuben Lodge No. 456.
Utica Degree Lodge No. 18.
Utica City Band.
Orators of the Day and Clergy.
Hon. ALKIDICK HUBBELL, President of the Day.
Committee of Arrangements in Carriages.
Mayor and Common Council of the city.

THIRD DIVISION.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.
Marshal, Chief Engineer J. H. Van Ness. Marshal.
S. Y. Lane, First Assistant.
F. Hitzelberger Second Assistant.
Rescue Hook and Ladder Company No. 1.
Tiger Hose Company No. 1.
Excelsior Engine Company No. 2.
Erina Hose Company No. 2.
Protection Hose Company No. 4.
Neptune Engine Company No. 5.
Franklin Hose Company No. 5.
Monitor Hose Company No. 6.
Niagara Hose Company No. 2, of Whitesboro.
Utica Brass Band.
Washington Engine Company No. 7.
Rough and Ready Hose Company No. 7.
Squad of Oneida City Men of the 24 N. Y. V.
Citizens Brass Band, of Little Falls.
Drum Corps of the 14th Regiment.
FOURTEENTH REGIMENT N. Y. V., COL. McQUADE.
Drum Corps of the 28th Regiment.
TWENTY-SIXTH REGIMENT N. Y. V., COL. RICHARDSON.
Disabled and Discharged Soldiers of the 14th and 26th Regiments.

The Knights Templar were forty in number, in full regalia, and mounted on beautiful horses.