

CIP-MAA

Critical Infrastructure Protection – Mission Assurance Assessments

Elements

- Assesses and protects key infrastructure
- Conducts all-hazard assessments on prioritized federal and state infrastructure to include:
communications,
public works,
transportation,
electrical power and water supply systems
- New York is one of three states to have CIP-MAA teams
- CIP-MAA has worked with the Office of Homeland Security (OHS) conducting, pipeline, Energy, Agro, and Chemical assessments in New York State.
- Traditional part-time Guard personnel functioning in an Active Duty for Special Work status

Mission: The New York National Guard (NYNG) Critical Infrastructure Protection – Mission Assurance Assessments (CIP-MAA) detachment conducts all-hazard assessments on critical defense industrial infrastructure in support of the Defense Critical Infrastructure Program (DCIP).

Overview: The New York National Guard CIP-MAA detachment is manned by a joint team composed of nine personnel, six Army Guard and three Air Guard, and a wide array of assessment capabilities. The team consists of a team leader, mission analyst, electrical specialist, transportation specialist, water, and heating, ventilating and air conditioning specialist, communications specialist, and a petroleum, oil, and lubrication specialist. These teams conduct mission assurance assessments of identified defense critical assets such as transportation, energy, and communications infrastructure.

Stood up in 2005 the NYNG CIP-MAA detachment has conducted a number of federal assessments across many states in the Defense Industrial Base (DIB) sector. The team has the potential to work in all divisions across the DIB sector to include: Aeronautical Systems Division, Ground Systems Division, Naval Sea Systems Division, and Space & Missile Systems Division. In addition, the CIP-MAA detachment has worked with New York State's Office of Homeland Security (OHS) conducting pipeline, Energy, Agro, and Chemical infrastructure assessments.

Location: The New York National Guard CIP-MAA detachment is centrally located in Latham NY.

