Effective 1 April 2013, Joint Services Support

(JSS), users will log into their accounts in the JSS system and Usernames will no longer be functional. Users will now enter the primary email address and password connected with their JSS user account.

If a JSS user is unsure of which email address is associated with their JSS user account, there are two ways to get that information:

– Login in with current username/password – Select edit profile in the top navigation bar located beside the log out area – Find Communications – Expand the category to locate the Primary email.

Or Contact the Helpdesk for assistance at feedback@jointservicesupport.org

Additional Changes and Updates

Email Migrations:

Within the past few months, many Department of Defense email addresses have changed due to migration. To ensure JSS users are up-to-date and have current and valid email addresses, JSS users should take this opportunity to update their email addresses or any other account information to ensure delivery of communications.

Passwords: As of 1 January 2013, JSS users were given the option to change the 15 character password to an 8 character password. This is a perfect opportunity to create a, shortened, and more convenient password.

.....& while you are on JSS why not update your volunteer hours on the activity tracker? !
